

Your lane

Your interiority, your car, your lane. Your traits, history, needs and unmet needs, your strengths, values, priorities, and choices until your time ends.

The universe randomly delivers flowers, meteorites, and logo-imprinted items to your lane.

Their lane

Their interiority, their car, their lane. Their traits, history, needs and unmet needs, strengths, values, priorities, and choices until their time ends.

The universe randomly delivers flowers, meteorites, and logo-imprinted items to their lane.

The universe's lane

Reality. The complexity of what exists—including the complexity and reality of the human condition—according to the laws of nature, properties of matter, and states of energy, independent of human belief or interpretation. Discerned through observation, reason, logic, and analysis of evidence in consultation with self, others, and peer-reviewed, reproducible, scientific research rather than through personal experience, intuition, "gut instinct," habit, case study data, anecdotal data, tradition, cultural, religious and/or political beliefs, or folk wisdom. Neutral, neither good nor bad, right or wrong, positive or negative, ideal or villainous, caring or uncaring, intentional or unintentional.